Today Big Day at Pawhuska

There will be a large attendance of men here at Pawhuska today, many going to see the sights and take in the show, who are not actually intending to purchase, and a show worth seeing it will be.

There is the greatest interest in captivity, and he handles the oil men like children. He knows the fine points of his trade and plays one against the other with consummate skill.

His comment into the thousands and as many as though there were a dozen of second-hand junk being sold and nobody seems to be mindful of expense, just so he is able to beat the other fellow to it.

This year there may be less rock less bidding, on account of the opening of the vast country south of the Red River, and this is certainly to be devoutly wished, but you never can tell, and from present appearance there is going to be a record breaking crowd.

The regular train leaves the Midland Valley depot at 7:30, and it will be an added feature of the big show, for the reason that oil men know how to make the best of a trip but throw together so many congenital spirits.

The main thing offered is adjoining acreage to the wells recently brought in in sections 17 and 18-19-8, and the stuff adjoining the big wells in 24-16, the latter probably going higher than any other offered. It lies in the neighborhood of Wyoming and Hominy, and the advancing oil men in the trend.

Speaking of the first mentioned well, the latest news is to the effect that the Gypco-McMann, Phillips et al, third test in 17-27-8, is making some water and is not flowing now, although it put up about 400 barrels in tanks the first 24 hours. The third well to the west of the original well is also not flowing, although it came in showing for a well and may be drilled deeper. There is nothing in any of these to excite the prospective buyer at today's rates. The Skelly and others well in the northeast corner of 19-27-8, which caught fire the other night, is rebuilding the rig. The best stuff seems to be in the old trend with many bidders seeking the stuff offered in the extreme western part of the Osage, where good structure is said to be located, and up against the Kansas line, where a small block is being offered today. Both the latter are strictly geological propositions.

The more acreage that is offered, the more likely is the stuff to be allotted individually at the end of the trust period, 1913, and besides the oil men need the money.

Large blocks offered, it is obvious that the government would relinquish control 12 years hence, and the country opened up to individual ownership.

Dana H. Kelsey Is Back.

Dana H. Kelsey, at the head of the prairie Oil & Gas Co., in Tulsa, is back from an extended trip to New York and is entirely non-committal as to any new deals that may have taken place while he was there.

He has cleared up a great mystery, however, as he was who sent a large number of mighty good Virginia home-smoked hams to Tulsa people, all of whom have been wondering who was their liberal benefactor.

He said, "I went into this big grocery store, and asked a friend if he knew of anything I could get for my Tulsa friends, which may well not likely be at hand. He suggested the home-smoked hams, and so I bought a dozen of them."

Up to now, most everybody in New York has been credited with his unexpected liberality.

Prominent Kentuckians In Town.

Prominent bankers and business men of Louisville, Ky., who are also interested in all development of Kentucky, are here to attend the Osage sale.

V. J. Buleit, president of the Louisville Savings Bank & Trust Co.; C. E. Gandy, president of the National Bank of Kentucky; James R. Duffin, president of the Inter-Southern Life Insurance Co., and C. C. Stoll, president of the C. C. Stoll Refining company, are among the Kentuckians who have been checking up the leases with a view of buying.

These gentlemen state that they are very much impressed with the business conditions in Tulsa. The numerous skyscrapers, the number of excellent banks which show deposits in excess of any city of its size in the country, they are also much impressed with the cleanliness of Tulsa, the number of miles of smooth asphalt streets, the numerous green lawns in the southeast of the southwest of 20-19-12.

South of Sand Springs.

The Dennis oil company No. 8 well on the Swanson Grayson, adjacent in the northeast of the southwest of 17-18-14, is making 5,000-6,000 bbls. per day.

The Atlantic Refining corporation has a 1000-barrel planer in their No. 4 well on the W. H. C. B. M. Ross property located in the southwest of the southwest of 20-19-12.

Osceola Howard, No. 1 well on his 1000-barrel planer in the northeast of the southwest of 17-18-14 is 16 barrel per day.

Deep Test at Headline.

The Barnes Bros. & Carl Cr. drilling in the center of the northeast of the southwest of 17-18-14, has a 1000-barrel planer in their No. 4 well on the W. H. C. B. M. Ross property located in the southwest of the southwest of 20-19-12.

The stockholders of the Oklahoma Producing & Refining corporation in Baltimore, and the following named of directors were selected: John Crawford, Homer Preston, James K. Schurman, E. L. Arthur and T. G. Chapman.

One Wild Game as They Play It in Texas.

In BEAUMONTE, TEXAS, March 2, the last days of the old Oliver, McRae and Biggs era of Tulsa, is the grand final for the already determined, who only seem to be playing for fun.

Comparison with the more-travelled Blackhornet. This is not an oil field, these are playing for simply a case of stock pinching.

Even or eight different open exchanges, going day and night in stock and bought on margin. The hotels are crowded to capacity, and outside running houses are jammed to the roof.

Oklanomans are trying to get production on the part of the oil companies, and consequently, seems to be very high. In fact, start to to 10 miles northwest of Blackhornet, is selling at from $2.00 to $3.00 per barrel.

There is a marked falling off in the way suckers are biting, and it looks as though the game is about played out. It will be a mighty good game for legitimate oil producers when it is.

In Tillman County.

The Midwest Petroleum Production company is continuing for the 16-inch at 500 feet, and the first test on the Hattie Woodworth farm in 25-18-18. This is the deepest test at present in Tillman county.

Condon & Co. are drilling at 500 feet on the old Hill Mose Welsh test in 15-19-18. This is their third well.

O. H. Pace and Oklahoma City men are drilling at 500 feet, and the first test on the Hill Mose Welsh test in 15-19-18.

The test started by the Hurford Oil company in 10-22-18 is still shut down at 500 feet. A new organization is taking this block over and will start up in about 10 days.

There is a rig up in 25-18-18, seven miles northeast of Frederick, Okla. Unknown parties are making the wildcat test.

Shallow Producer at Red Fork.

The Citizens State Oil & Co. is bringing in a shallow producer in the flat land found at the shallow level of 622 feet yesterday, in its No. 2 well located in the southeast corner of the northeast of 29-19-12. These will complete drilling in and shoot today.

Van Huss and others have brought in two wells making little more than 10 barrels daily, located on the John E. Hemming farm in the northeast corner of the northeast of 27-19-12, No. 1 for the farm, and in their Jacob well.

The more acreage that is offered, the more likely is the stuff to be allotted individually at the end of the trust period, 1913, and besides the oil men need the money.

Large blocks offered, it is obvious that the government would relinquish control 12 years hence, and the country opened up to individual ownership.
